Wheeler Adds Voice To That Of Missourian Threatening Major Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—A prediction that Japan will war on the United States if she thinks she can win, a declaration that the administration plans to convoy merchant ships to Britain and a denunciation of the lease-lend bill as war itself reverberated today as the senate battle over British aid neared a climax.

In the face of possibility of a filibuster, administration leaders declared that they will push the measure to final passage this week by a more than two to one vote.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see trouble break out in the Far East," said Sen. Norris (R) Neb. "If Japan thinks she can lick us she will try. There is no doubt about that."

"One of the first acts of the government after lease-lend goods are produced will be to convey them to Britain with our navy," said Sen. McCarran (D) Nev. "That is the purpose of the bill. It cannot be avoided. Germany has declared the greatest submarine campaign in history. If goods are going to Britain, we must convoy them."

"In my opinion it is war," Sen. Clark (D) Idaho said of the lease-lend bill in a speech prepared for senate delivery "and that is why I shall vote against it."

To Deal With Japs
Norris, who is supporting the bill, said he favored it "as a measure to deal with the possibility of trouble with Japan as well as for aid to Britain."

The uphill battle of foes of the bill was carried in senate debate today by Clark and Sen. Danaher (Continued on Page Two)

Altercation Between U.S. Minister, German Follows Request For 'Tipperary'

SOFIA, Feb. 24—Diplomatic circles in Sofia snapped up every scrap of fact and fiction today regarding the cafe altercation between George H. Earle, American minister to Bulgaria, and an unidentified German who threw a champagne bottle at him.

Earle, former governor of Pennsylvania and World War commander of an American submarine chaser, explained the incident this way: "I visited the Maxim Bar, accompanied by two newspapermen. We requested the band to play Tipperary, but the conductor refused to play the piece."

"Then an unidentified man—presumably a German—flung a wine bottle at me, which I caught and flung back. It scratched my assailant's head and he left the bar."

"It was a regrettable incident, but I saw no other course." (Editor's Note: In Berlin German quarters commented sarcastically: "It is unfortunate that American diplomats have such bad luck in night clubs in the Balkan area.")

Although his arm was slightly injured by the bottle, it was learned that Earle does not intend any diplomatic action with regard to the incident.

Objections Voiced
He said that several Germans at a nearby table voiced objections to his request for Tipperary and that the bottle came flying through the air a moment later.

(Editor's Note: In Washington State Department officials expressed interest but no grave diplomatic concern over the incident.

Earle, scion of a wealthy Pennsylvania sugar family, was appointed minister to Sofia a few months after his defeat in the 1938 Pennsylvania senatorial election.)

The incident involving the American diplomat was by no means the first occasion that American citizens have been assaulted by the Germans in the Balkans.

A few weeks ago, in a prominent Belgrade hotel, five Germans were reported to have "insulted and goaded" two Americans and their wives.

When these tactics failed, Belgrade reports said, the Nazis threw a glass, which hit the wife of a "prominent American journalist."

According to this account the American newspaper man hit back.

Affair Private One

Earle made it clear that he does not plan further action on grounds that the cafe incident was a "private affair."

The altercation occurred Saturday night at the Maxim Bar, one of the most fashionable in Sofia.

Observers in Sofia regarded this incident an indication of mounting tension that has accompanied German infiltration into the Balkans.

GAYDA DECLARES BRITAIN PLANNED TO INVADE ITALY

ROME, Feb. 24—A sensational charge that Britain planned to invade Italy at the time this country entered the European war was published today by Virginia Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini.

Gayda said that for this reason Italy entered the war without sufficient preparation. He also admitted that Italy had made "certain mistakes."

"Italy entered the war without sufficient preparation to fulfill its promises," Gayda wrote.

"If we had waited, the conflict would have been brought fatally to Italian soil and Italian seas. The enemy planned an invasion of the Po Valley."

"Italy's dark and difficult days can be explained by the fact we are fighting the weight of the British Empire as well as by certain mistakes on our part."

"A better and perhaps decisive stage of the war is approaching, in which Italy is ready to participate. This may end the war."

FOES' BIG GUNS KEEP CHANNEL DISTRICT NOISY

LONDON, Feb. 24—German and British long-range guns hurled shells back and forth across the Straits of Dover today after German bombers raided England during the night and RAF planes pounded invasion ports along the Nazi-occupied French coast.

According to a British Air Ministry communique, RAF bombers attacked Calais and Boulogne during the night. The attack on Boulogne was the 74th carried out by the RAF, while that on Calais was the 61st.

A later Air Ministry announcement said large fires had been started at Boulogne and many bomb bursts had been observed in the port's dock area.

A ship tied up at the Calais docks was hit and set on fire, the communique said, adding that a small force of bombers also attacked the docks at Brest. One British plane was lost, the communique said.

The communique said a "medium force" of bombers participated in the raids, which were described as "successful." While the attacks were in progress, spectators on England's southeast coast saw vivid flashes across the channel.

Fuehrer Declares Secret New Type Of Submarines To Be Used By Axis

MUNICH, Feb. 24—Destruction of the British navy, starvation of England and eventual collapse of all capitalistic nations were predicted by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in a speech to old party comrades at the Munich Hofbrau House today.

Secret new types of German and Italian submarines manned by specially-trained expert crews will strike in full force at the British fleet and merchant marine in March and April, he said and when the proper moment comes, Germany will march as a single man to invade the enemy.

"Destiny cannot bless the arms of our enemy, for in the democratic races there is nothing but greed, lust and selfishness," Hitler said. "We have worked, we have labored and we have sacrificed. The Lord cannot possibly acquiesce in the destruction of a people so courageous, so willing and so fortuitous."

"Destiny cannot abandon a nation that struggles as Germany has struggled since the birth of National Socialism."

Farm Wife's Four Babes Doing Well In Incubator

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 24—Wrapped in cotton and blankets and surrounded by hot water bottles, the Lasley quadruplets—three girls and a boy born under almost primitive conditions yesterday to Mrs. Porter Lasley, 42-year-old Kentucky farm wife—arrived by special ambulance today in Louisville.

The infants—weighing a total of 18 pounds at birth—at once were placed in the incubator room at City Hospital.

All completed the two-hour drive, without incident, from Leitchfield, the farm community where they were born.

The boy, weakest of the quartet although he was the heaviest, weighing 5 1/4 pounds, was the only one who worried physicians. He seemed to have difficulty breathing and was administered oxygen twice during the ambulance trip. The girls were given oxygen once as a precautionary measure. Two weighed 4 pounds and the third 4 1/2. The mother remained in the three-room Lasley home two miles outside Leitchfield. Her condition was described as good. Both she and the father, 44 years old, protested removal of the babies to Louisville, nurses said, but capitulated when it was explained the youngsters needed expert hospital care.

Mrs. Lasley has had ten other children, eight of whom are living. The eldest is 23.

DEFENSE WORK SECOND MARCH AT WHEEL FIRM CALL RECEIVED TO BE RESUMED BY DRAFT BOARD

Strike At Lansing Plant Ends; 3,000 Ready To Return Wednesday

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 24—Soon after it was announced that work would resume even if negotiations continued at a deadlock, the 12-day old strike at the Motor Wheel Corp., was settled today.

H. H. Shaw, corporation personnel director, said the 3,000 striking employees would reenter the plant Wednesday to continue work on $4,000,000 in defense contracts.

Earlier, Shaw declared the plant would reopen tomorrow and that police protection would be given employees who desired to work even in face of the strike.

No details of the settlement were given. The issue was a closed shop. In a statement, Shaw said: "The Motor Wheel Corporation and the UAW-AFL have come to an agreement. The plant reopens Wednesday for all three shifts."

It was generally assumed that the settlement would leave the way open for speedy resumption of work at the Packard Motor Co. in Detroit where 7,500 workers were made idle when Packard exhausted the supply of wheels it normally obtains from the corporation.

Announcement of the settlement was made at the conclusion of a 17-hour conference participated in by Shaw, Federal Labor Conciliator, John J. Connor, State Mediation Board Chairman Thomas J. Donahue and James Meehan, National Defense commission representative.

LONDONERS TEST GAS MASKS WITH GREAT SUCCESS

LONDON, Feb. 24—London had its first poison gas test today and authorities concluded that if Adolf Hitler is depending on such attacks for a successful invasion he is doomed to disappointment.

Hugh Street in Piccadilly, an ordinarily crowded middle class district behind Victoria Station, was chosen for the test.

It was carried out along the same general lines as the initial gas experiment at Brighton on the south coast a week ago. As in that case, authorities described it as "very successful."

A harmless but extremely distasteful gas was sprayed through the street after hypothetical explosion of a 250-pound gas bomb had sent wardens rushing through the street with the rattles which will tell of a real gas attack when and if it comes.

All residents had been informed in advance of the test and all persons in other parts of London were told that if they planned to visit Piccadilly they had better wear their gas masks.

Nazi Papers Say Quick End Of Greek Campaign May Be Expected

SOFIA, Feb. 24—The Bulgarian government rushed through a number of war preparedness measures today as 25 opposition political leaders vainly awaited a reply to their request for a "peace conference" with King Boris.

Headed by former Premier Muchenaff, the men petitioned the king for an opportunity to voice their wishes that his government do everything possible to maintain Bulgarian peace and neutrality.

Up to a late hour, the monarch had not responded. He was pictured as undecided and perhaps reconciled to a belief that Bulgaria is at the mercy of events.

Meanwhile, government officials scoffed at British rumors that German military occupation of this country is imminent, but British authorities remained convinced that a Nazi invasion is but a matter of days.

King Boris himself was said to feel that Bulgaria's fate would soon be decided. Important cabinet officials pointed out, Bulgaria can not be held responsible for events brought about by the will of great European powers and in any case would be militarily unable to resist pressure from the north.

No Lessons Needed

In this connection, the semi-official newspaper Slovo attacked a Greek radio announcer for saying that Greece gave other nations a good lesson in how to fight for liberty.

"Bulgaria needs no such lessons," the paper said.

All house-porters and janitors in Sofia were called up for air raid precaution training. The population itself was requested by the government to raise funds for the families of mobilized soldiers.

Bridges in the western part of Bulgaria have been strengthened to bear loads up to 20 tons, it was reported, leading to belief they will be used by fast German tanks.

Editor's Note: The London Daily Express reported from Sofia that German troops have occupied four railway stations in the Bulgarian capital, requisitioned almost every villa and country house around the city and are preparing for arrival of great masses of German troops.

Bulgarian newspapers prominently displayed German reports which said "speedy liquidation" of the Greek campaign is anticipated.

TOKYO, Feb. 24—A belligerent warning to the United States and Britain to halt their military measures in the Orient was sounded today by the newspaper Nichi Nichi, which threatened that bases at Guam and Singapore might be "brushed aside" by Japan.

"Japan and the Japanese people would like to advise Britain and the United States to call a halt to defensive measures in the Pacific," said Nichi Nichi.

The paper described the Anglo-American measures as an "unwarrantable challenge" and added: "Guam and Singapore would be brushed aside by Japan should she be compelled to answer this challenge."

FOUR ON PLANE LOST IN NORTH

Co-Discoverer Of Insulin Treatment And Captain Mackey On Craft

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 24—Search by land and air was continued today for a military airplane carrying Sir Frederick Grant Banting, co-discoverer of the insulin treatment, which has been missing since its take-off for delivery by a civilian organization to the military forces last Friday.

Also aboard the plane, which was reported missing despite good flying weather, were three other persons. They were Test Pilot Capt. Joseph Creighton Mackey of Kansas City; Navigator William Bird, an Englishman, and William Snellman of Nova Scotia.

Both take-off point and destination of the plane were unrevealed by Canadian authorities. One theory was that the plane might have been lost somewhere off the east coast.

Sir Frederick, who held the rank of major in the Canadian army, was doing research work in the field of aviation medicine. He was founder and chairman of the Associate Committee on Aviation Medicine.

The discovery of insulin, for which Sir Frederick gave credit to Charles Herbert Best as co-discoverer, was made at the University of Toronto in 1922. In 1923, Sir Frederick was awarded the Nobel Prize in medicine.

Capt. Joseph Mackey is one of Ohio's best known aviators. His home was in Findlay, although he later moved to Kansas City.

Mackey was widely known as a stunt flier and had taken part in numerous air shows throughout the state.

When last heard from him by his Ohio friends he was ferrying warplanes across the Atlantic from Canada.

It was carried out along the same general lines as the initial gas experiment at Brighton on the south coast a week ago. As in that case, authorities described it as "very successful."

A harmless but extremely distasteful gas was sprayed through the street after hypothetical explosion of a 250-pound gas bomb had sent wardens rushing through the street with the rattles which will tell of a real gas attack when and if it comes.

All residents had been informed in advance of the test and all persons in other parts of London were told that if they planned to visit Piccadilly they had better wear their gas masks.

Nazi Papers Say Quick End Of Greek Campaign May Be Expected

SOFIA, Feb. 24—The Bulgarian government rushed through a number of war preparedness measures today as 25 opposition political leaders vainly awaited a reply to their request for a "peace conference" with King Boris.

Headed by former Premier Muchenaff, the men petitioned the king for an opportunity to voice their wishes that his government do everything possible to maintain Bulgarian peace and neutrality.

Up to a late hour, the monarch had not responded. He was pictured as undecided and perhaps reconciled to a belief that Bulgaria is at the mercy of events.

Meanwhile, government officials scoffed at British rumors that a German military occupation of this country is imminent, but British authorities remained convinced that a Nazi invasion is but a matter of days.

King Boris himself was said to feel that Bulgaria's fate would soon be decided. Important cabinet officials pointed out, Bulgaria can not be held responsible for events brought about by the will of great European powers and in any case would be militarily unable to resist pressure from the north.

No Lessons Needed

In this connection, the semi-official newspaper Slovo attacked a Greek radio announcer for saying that Greece gave other nations a good lesson in how to fight for liberty.

"Bulgaria needs no such lessons," the paper said. All house-porters and janitors in Sofia were called up for air raid precaution training. The population itself was requested by the government to raise funds for the families of mobilized soldiers.

Bridges in the western part of Bulgaria have been strengthened to bear loads up to 20 tons, it was reported, leading to belief they will be used by fast German tanks.

Editor's Note: The London Daily Express reported from Sofia that German troops have occupied four railway stations in the Bulgarian capital, requisitioned almost every villa and country house around the city and are preparing for arrival of great masses of German troops.

Bulgarian newspapers prominently displayed German reports which said "speedy liquidation" of the Greek campaign is anticipated.

Japs To Brush Aside Guam And Singapore

TOKYO, Feb. 24—A belligerent warning to the United States and Britain to halt their military measures in the Orient was sounded today by the newspaper Nichi Nichi, which threatened that bases at Guam and Singapore might be "brushed aside" by Japan.

"Japan and the Japanese people would like to advise Britain and the United States to call a halt to defensive measures in the Pacific," said Nichi Nichi.

The paper described the Anglo-American measures as an "unwarrantable challenge" and added: "Guam and Singapore would be brushed aside by Japan should she be compelled to answer this challenge."

her alliance with Britain and will fight for her own independence was placed before Europe today by Foreign Minister Sucru Saragcu.

Informed quarters interpreted the foreign minister's declaration, published by the government newspaper Ulus today, as a hint that Turkey might enter the European war on the side of Britain if German forces enter Bulgaria and use it as a base for aggression against Turkey.

Saragcu declared the Ankara government would "not remain indifferent to foreign activities that might occur in Turkey's zone of security."

(Editor's Note: While Saragcu did not specifically define this zone, Bulgaria long has been included within it as a matter of general Turkish policy. British sources in Sofia said today they are convinced German forces are about to march through Bulgaria in a new drive to the south.)

Italy To Fight Until Last Drop Of Blood

ROME, Feb. 24.—Disclosing that German troops already are in Africa, Premier Mussolini today left with his people a flat promise of "certain" victory over Greece, and at the same time warned his foes that Italy will fight to the "last drop of blood."

This afternoon Italian newspapers hailed Il Duce's speech as marking the "military turning point." They commented on the emotional style of his delivery.

Mussolini's voice rose and fell over wide ranges of pitch and tone, in some passages he laughed and in others he pounded the table while his voice rose almost to the breaking point—an oratorical style strongly resembling Chancellor Hitler's.

Il Duce broke a silence of three months to renew his pledges that Italy would march "shoulder to shoulder" with Germany to the end, but he admitted that Fascist forces had suffered "heavy losses" in North Africa.

Asserting Britain would be defeated even with aid from United States, Mussolini denounced American help to Britain. He said such aid would be "too late" to prevent an axis victory.

Ten thousand leading Fascists gathered in the Hadrian Theatre and an overflow crowd of 40,000 heard the premier's address.

In revealing that German forces are in Africa as well as Sicily, Il Duce declared:

"The Fuehrer's offer of collaboration in the Mediterranean with air and armored detachments proved... that the cooperation of Germany and Italy is sincere," said Mussolini. "Let all foreigners know that the behavior of German soldiers in Libya and Sicily is perfectly worthy of them."

volving other Balkan nations against the axis.

"The present status in Albania is a prelude to a new and broader phase of activity."

"Tanks and armored cars manufactured in the United States, superior to Italian equipment, helped the British in Africa."

"Italy is poor and is fighting with a poor man's means. But Italy and Germany intend to assure justice for other peoples who show faith in and respect the axis."

JAPAN MAY WAR ON U. S., WARNS SENATOR NORRIS

Tokyo Would Move If She Thought She Might Win, Senator Told

(R) Conn., with Sen. Walsh (D) Mass., scheduled to speak tomorrow.

Meantime, Majority Leader Barkley sought an agreement with leaders of the opposition to begin senate sessions at 11 a. m. tomorrow so that amendments can be taken up Wednesday.

Protests of Sens. Wheeler (D) Mont., and Clark (D) Missouri, raising the possibility of threat of filibuster, impelled Barkley to seek a friendly agreement.

Clark flayed the bill as simply one of the steps which have been taken and which will be taken to send American boys overseas to battle Hitler's legions.

Admits Bill To Pass
Admitting that the bill will pass, he declared that foes cannot overcome propaganda and money, which he said, have been too much for us," he said.

"I am cognizant of the fact that we are going to war whether you call it war or not, I don't know how to stop it, but I intend to live whatever years the future may allot me in knowing that I did my best."

"People of America, you are on your way to war. You are moving there in a turbulent cataract of misinformation, half-truths, emotional hysteria and heavily subsidized propaganda. You are being whipped there by international filanders who will coin great piles of wealth out of the blood of your sons."

"Big business, little business, the 'little people' of America all will love the war that is ahead, Clark said. It will mean big business, parades and excitement. But the aftermath, he said, will be a headache.

"Mothers of America," he declared, "you won't like war quite as much at first. So far, you, more than any other group, have withstood the ravages of propaganda leveled at your hearts."

"But soon they will make you like it; before they get through, you, too, will proudly send your sons across the sea to die."

Clark, peering into the future, declared that the war is certain it will mean that democracy will vanish, freedoms of today will seem like memories, the government will take control of railroads, the radio, newspapers and other forms of public information, labor will be conscripted and farmers will be regimented.

NEW ADDITIONS TO THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Embroidery Book — by Mary Thomas. Clear and concise diagrams and a practical text tell how to combine embroidery stitches into patterns and designs. A chapter called "Technical and Miscellaneous Hints" along with "danger signals," which mark many pitfalls, solve many problems for the needleworker. The book is arranged alphabetically with an index and a subject index to illustrations.

Sergeant Lamb's America — By Robert Graves. Written in imitation of the 18th century style as an eye-witness from the British viewpoint of the American Revolution, this novel is the story of a wild young Irishman who was sent to Canada to fight the rebels. His adventures with the army and the Indians, his love affair with Kate, and his observations of the American way of living are highly entertaining. The book was published in England under the title: Sergeant Lamb of the Ninth. Another volume will probably follow later. Goes well with Oliver Wiswell.

Caesars In Goose-Step — By W. D. Bayles. From the foreword of the book we learn that the author gives us "Sketches of the masters of Germany portrayed against the background of their own development and the environment that served as a vehicle to elevate them to power." Hitler, Goering, Hess, Goebbels, Ribbentrop, Himmler, Raeder, the Nazi Generals, and many others are included. The author lived in Germany from 1934 to 1940 as a correspondent for Time and Life magazines. He is an American and taught English for two years at the University of Munich.

The American Presidency — By H. J. Laski. An analytical and interpretative discussion of the presidency. Mr. Laski is an Englishman—a foreigner—has combined his knowledge of American thought and institutions to produce a profound study worthy of the importance of his subject. Apparently his knowledge extends into the inside of the White House and many government offices. Although the author takes in his stride some revolutionary ideas, he gives an excellent estimate of the Presidency, indicating traditions, conventions, and laws in their relationship to the Congress, the Cabinet, and particularly to the people themselves. This book has been purchased for the bookmobile, but may be obtained if requested at the main library.

JUDICIAL CRISIS ENDS
FRESNO, Cal., — A judicial crisis is over, with an American flag hiding the Roman faces fresco on the panel of the federal courtroom in the new Federal Building. Judges holding court in the structure raised vigorous objection to the decoration — apparently the work of a government architect from Washington, D. C. Besides objecting to the Fascist symbol, they strongly disliked its accompanying motto: "Justice by law, law by order."

America's death rate in 1939 was 10.6 per 1,000 population, the lowest in U. S. history, and its birth rate was 17.3 compared with 16.6 in 1933, the year with the lowest rate, the Census Bureau reports.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. Horticulturist

QUESTION: We have one of those hardy three-leaved ivy vines by our back porch that is beautiful but always bothered by those canker worms that always come on the elm trees. Is there anything I can spray the vines with before the foliage comes clear out to prevent the worms or if not, what spray can I use to destroy them? The foliage gets so heavy it is hard to find the worms. Miss H. M., Pemberville.

ANSWER: I am not quite sure what ivy you refer to by three-leaved since the Boston ivy usually has one leaf and the Woodbine or Virginia creeper has five leaves. However, you will be able to control any insects eating foliage by applying arsenate of lead. If this is put on just before you normally expect the occurrence of these worms, it should entirely control them.

After they are there, they may either be controlled by the use of arsenate of lead or if the foliage is not too heavy by spraying with a pyrethrum or rotenone spray. This latter will not discolor the foliage although it must come directly in contact with each insect in order to kill it.

Although rabbits may be repelled from fruit trees by painting the trunks with a resin-alcohol paint preparation, this of course would not be practical on succulent tissue. The only thing I can suggest is that you either catch the rabbits in an old-fashioned box trap or shoot them with a rifle. Instructions for making the rabbit paint are in Ohio extension bulletin No. 128, Spraying Program. This may be obtained from your county agricultural agent.

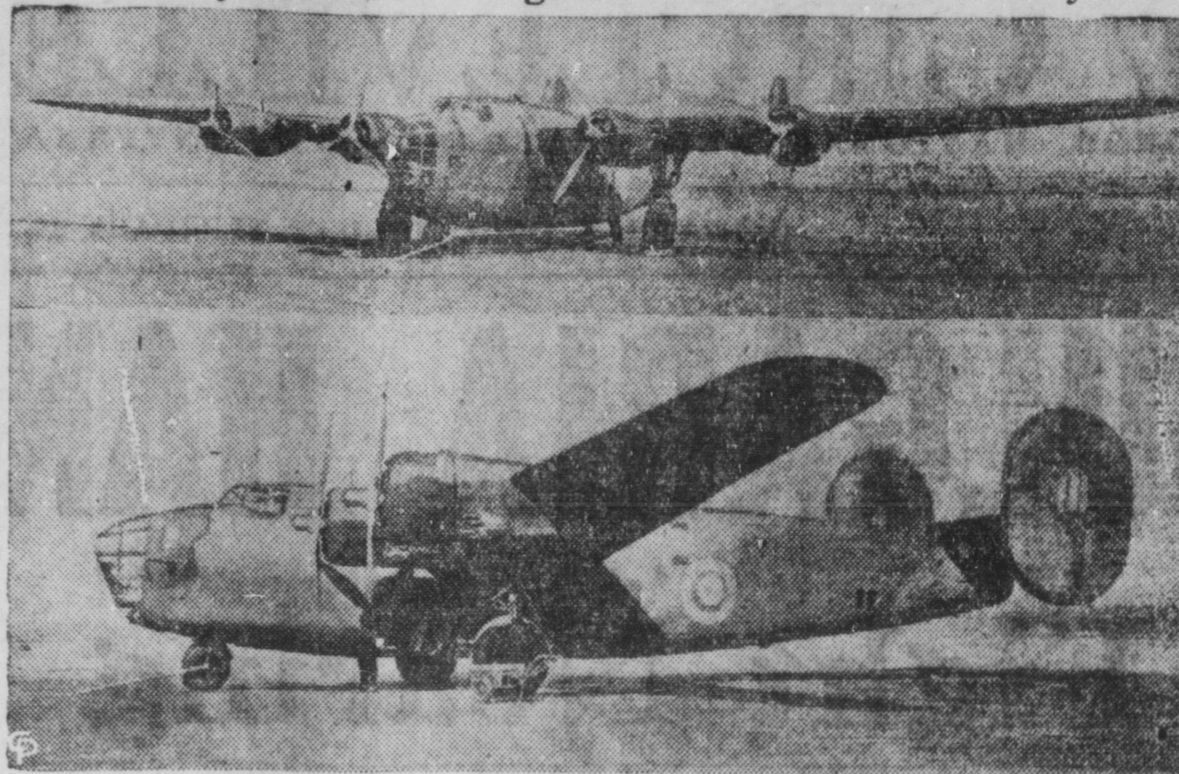

QUESTION: I would appreciate some information on making this hard clay soil, which is all that is available to me, suitable for pot and box culture. I would like to start some seeds indoors for early blooming flowers. What would you suggest along this line? F. T. H., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: Personally, I would not use any soil at all for starting seeds. For a number of years I have sown all seeds in a mixture of peat moss and sand. If it is fresh sand from the pit and fresh peat moss from the bale, it is weed-free and relatively sterile. This mixture does not cake, is well drained, and will give the seedlings an ideal opportunity for starting. However, after they are an inch or two high they should be transplanted since there is little or no nourishment in this mixture. If I had to use a soil, I would mix it with equal parts of rotted leaves or peat moss and sand. Then to control weeds I would put it in the oven and bake it at 212 degrees Fahrenheit for two hours. I still feel that the sand and peat is the easiest.

QUESTION: Can the butcher bloom or Ruscus, which is dyed red and sold at Christmas time, be grown here in Ohio? If so, what kind of soil would you recommend and where can I get the seed? O. A. R., Alliance.

ANSWER: The Ruscus, which in its normal state is bright green, can be grown only in the southern states. I doubt very much whether it can even be grown in

Hitler Tells Comrades That British Navy Will Be Destroyed

mand is given, Germany will march."

"The Italo-German alliance is indissoluble," Hitler said.

"It will be seen that neither of us has been sleeping during this winter. The Italians did good service for many long months when only a few submarines were available.

"Italy kept a strong British force busy in the Mediterranean. For us the sea struggle will now only begin. We have had to train crews for new submarines which now are coming. That they will soon begin activity no body should doubt.

"The time element cannot frighten me. I have learned to wait. I have never been idle. I was busy ten years before any big power got started."

The Fuehrer ridiculed reports that Britain was seriously contemplating an offensive.

"If they come I suppose I will have to chase them," he said. "But I assure you we will get them wherever we find them."

Have Great Machine

"This confidence is based on the realization that we possess the greatest military machine of all times. Behind it stands the German nation, unified and determined.

"No power on earth can destroy this unity, which is one that would be undreamed-of in the democracies.

"Their chief hope is of a future revolution in Germany. I don't know what kind of a revolution they are expecting. There may be a few insane people left in Germany, people who might believe in the possibility of such a revolution.

"But they are fortunately behind bars.

"Germany is stronger than it has ever been, and better guided than it ever was. Above all, I thank the Gods that I am young and hale and hearty enough to assume the leadership in this final struggle.

"And particularly now I feel better than ever. I feel that spring is in the air."

Within the last 48 hours, he said, German U-boats and war planes have sunk 215,000 tons of British shipping of which 90,000 tons were warships.

"It will be much more from the first of April onward," he said.

"Wherever British ships appear and where Britain will fight us. We will fight them and destroy them."

Italian cooperation will be complete in battling the British navy in the Mediterranean, he said.

Germany stands ready and waiting for a threatened British initiative this spring, Hitler declared.

There have been similar British predictions in the past, Hitler said, and evoked a roar of laughter when he added:

"For no mortal has downfall ever been prophesied so often as to me, and no one ever has been told so many times that his defeat was imminent.

"But I have become entirely indifferent to such predictions."

Hitler spoke to his old-line comrades and the German nation from the same spot where 21 years ago he first outlined the Nazi party program.

U. S. manufacturers of equipment for steam railroads in 1939 built 26,180 flat cars compared with 90,754 in 1937, they reported to the Census Bureau. This does not include production in railroad shops.

her alliance with Britain and will fight for her own independence was placed before Europe today by Foreign Minister Sucru Saracoglu.

Informed quarters interpreted the foreign minister's declaration, published by the government newspaper Ulus today, as a hint that Turkey might enter the European war on the side of Britain if German forces enter Bulgaria and use it as a base for aggression against Turkey.

Saracoglu declared the Ankara government would "not remain indifferent to foreign activities that might occur in Turkey's zone of security."

(Editor's Note: While Saracoglu did not specifically define this zone, Bulgaria long has been included within it as a matter of general Turkish policy. British sources in Sofia said today they are convinced German forces are about to march through Bulgaria in a new drive to the south.)

Italy To Fight Until Last Drop Of Blood

ROME, Feb. 24.—Disclosing that German troops already are in Africa, Premier Mussolini today left with his people a flat promise of "certain" victory over Greece, and at the same time warned his foes that Italy will fight to the "last drop of blood."

This afternoon Italian newspapers hailed Il Duce's speech as marking the "military turning point." They commented on the emotional style of his delivery.

Mussolini's voice rose and fell over wide ranges of pitch and tone, in some passages he laughed and in others he pounded the table while his voice rose almost to the breaking point—an oratorical style strongly resembling Chancellor Hitler's.

Il Duce broke a silence of three months to renew his pledges that Italy would march "shoulder to shoulder" with Germany to the end, but he admitted that Fascist forces had suffered "heavy losses" in North Africa.

Asserting Britain would be defeated even with aid from United States, Mussolini denounced American help to Britain. He said such aid would be "too late" to prevent an axis victory.

Ten thousand leading Fascists gathered in the Hadrian Theatre and an overflow crowd of 40,000 heard the premier's address.

In revealing that German forces are in Africa as well as Sicily, Il Duce declared:

"The Fuehrer's offer of collaboration in the Mediterranean with air and armored detachments provided... that the cooperation of Germany and Italy is sincere," said Mussolini. "Let all foreigners know that the behavior of German soldiers in Libya and Sicily is perfectly worthy of them."

volving other Balkan nations against the axis.

"The present situation in Albania is a prelude to a new and broader phase of activity."

"Tanks and armored cars manufactured in the United States, superior to Italian equipment, helped the British in Africa."

"Italy is poor and is fighting with a poor man's means. But Italy and Germany intend to assure justice for other peoples who show faith in and respect the axis."

JAPAN MAY WAR ON U. S., WARNS SENATOR NORRIS

Tokyo Would Move If She Thought She Might Win, Senator Told

(R) Conn., with Sen. Walsh (D) Mass., scheduled to speak tomorrow.

Meantime, Majority Leader Barkley sought an agreement with leaders of the opposition to begin senate sessions at 11 a. m. tomorrow so that amendments can be taken up Wednesday.

Protests of Sens. Wheeler (D) Mont., and Clark (D) Missouri, raising the possibility of threat of filibuster, impelled Barkley to seek a friendly agreement.

Clark played the bill as simply one of the steps which have been taken and which will be taken to send American boys overseas to battle Hitler's legions.

Admits Bill To Pass
Admitting that the bill will pass, he declared that foes cannot overcome propaganda and money, which he said, have been too much for us," he said.

"I am cognizant of the fact that we are going to war whether you call it war or not. I don't know how to stop it, but I intend to live whatever years the future may allot me in knowing that I did my best."

"People of America, you are on your way to war. You are moving there in a turbulent cataract of misinformation, half-truths, emotional hysteria and heavily subsidized propaganda. You are being whipped there by international financiers who will coin great piles of wealth out of the blood of your sons."

Big business, little business, the "little people" of America all will love the war that is ahead, Clark said. It will mean big business, parades and excitement. But the aftermath, he said, will be a headache.

"Mothers of America," he declared, "you won't like war quite as much at first. So far, you, more than any other group, have withstood the ravages of propaganda leveled at your hearts."

"But soon they will make you like it; before they get through, you, too, will proudly send your sons across the sea to die."

Clark, peering into the future, declared that the war is certain it will mean that democracy will vanish, freedoms of today will seem like memories, the government will take control of railroads, the radio, newspapers and other forms of public information, labor will be conscripted and farmers will be regimented.

NEW ADDITIONS TO THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Embroidery Book — by Mary Thomas. Clear and concise diagrams and a practical text tell how to combine embroidery stitches into patterns and designs. A chapter called "Technical and Miscellaneous Hints" along with "danger signals", which mark many pitfalls, solve many problems for the needleworker. The book is arranged alphabetically with an index and a subject index to illustrations.

Sergeant Lamb's America — By Robert Graves. Written in imitation of the 18th century style as an eye-witness from the British viewpoint of the American Revolution, this novel is the story of a wild young Irishman who was sent to Canada to fight the rebels. His adventures with the army and the Indians, his love affair with Kate, and his observations of the American way of living are highly entertaining. The book was published in England under the title: Sergeant Lamb of the Ninth. Another volume will probably follow later. Goes well with Oliver Wiswell.

Caesars In Goose-Step — By W. D. Bayles. From the foreword of the book we learn that the author gives us "Sketches of the masters of Germany portrayed against the background of their own development and the environment that served as a vehicle to elevate them to power." Hitler, Goering, Hess, Goebbels, Ribbentrop, Himmler, Raeder, the Nazi Generals, and many others are included. The author lived in Germany from 1934 to 1940 as a correspondent for Time and Life magazines. He is an American and taught English for two years at the University of Munich.

The American Presidency — By H. J. Laski. An analytical and interpretative discussion of the presidency. Mr. Laski is an Englishman—a foreigner—has combined his knowledge of American thought and institutions to produce a profound study worthy of the importance of his subject. Apparently his knowledge extends into the inside of the White House and many government offices. He gives an excellent estimate of the Presidency, indicating traditions, conventions, and laws in their relationship to the Congress, the Cabinet, and particularly to the people themselves. This book has been purchased for the bookmobile, but may be obtained if requested at the main library.

JUDICIAL CRISIS ENDS

FRESNO, Cal., — A judicial crisis is over, with an American flag hiding the Roman fasces fresco on the panel of the federal courtroom in the new Federal Building. Judges holding court in the structure raised vigorous objection to the decoration — apparently the work of a government architect from Washington, D. C. Besides objecting to the Fascist symbol, they strongly disliked its accompanying motto: "Justice by law, law by order."

America's death rate in 1939 was 10.6 per 1,000 population, the lowest in U. S. history, and its birth rate was 17.3 compared with 16.8 in 1933, the year with the lowest rate, the Census Bureau reports.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. Horticulturist

QUESTION: We have one of those hardy three-leaved ivy vines by our back porch that is beautiful but always bothered by those canker worms that always come on the elm trees. Is there anything I can spray the vines with before the foliage comes clear out to prevent the worms or if not, what spray can I use to destroy them? The foliage gets so heavy it is hard to find the worms. Miss H. M., Pemberville.

ANSWER: I am not quite sure what ivy you refer to by three-leaved since the Boston ivy usually has one leaf and the Woodbine or Virginia creeper has five leaves. However, you will be able to control any insects eating foliage by applying arsenate of lead. If this is put on just before you normally expect the occurrence of these worms, it should entirely control them.

After they are there, they may either be controlled by the use of arsenate of lead or if the foliage is not too heavy by spraying with a pyrethrum or rotenone spray. This latter will not discolor the foliage although it must come in direct contact with each insect in order to kill it.

Although rabbits may be repelled from fruit trees by painting the trunks with a resin-alcohol paint preparation, this of course would not be practical on succulent tissue. The only thing I can suggest is that you either catch the rabbits in an old-fashioned box trap or shoot them with a rifle. Instructions for making the rabbit bait are in Ohio extension bulletin No. 128, Spraying Program. This may be obtained from your county agricultural agent.

QUESTION: I would appreciate some information on making this hard clay soil, which is all that is available to me, suitable for pot and box culture. I would like to start some seeds indoors for early blooming flowers. What would you suggest along this line? F. T. H., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: Personally, I would not use any soil at all for starting seeds. For a number of years I have sown all seeds in a mixture of peat moss and sand. If it is fresh sand from the pit and fresh peat moss from the bale, it is weed-free and relatively sterile. This mixture does not cake, is well drained, and will give the seedlings an ideal opportunity for starting. However, after they are an inch or two high they should be transplanted since there is little or no nourishment in this mixture. If I had to use a soil, I would mix it with equal parts of rotted leaves or peat moss and sand. Then to control weeds I would put it in the oven and bake it at 212 degrees Fahrenheit for two hours. I still feel that the sand and peat is the easiest.

QUESTION: Can the butcher bloom or Ruscus, which is dyed red and sold at Christmas time, be grown here in Ohio? If so, what kind of soil would you recommend and where can I get the seed? O. A. R., Alliance.

ANSWER: The Ruscus, which in its normal state is bright green, can be grown only in the southern states. I doubt very much whether it can even be grown in Ohio.

AXIS TO STRIKE IN FULL FORCE IN MARCH, APRIL

Hitler Tells Comrades That British Navy Will Be Destroyed

mand is given, Germany will march."

"The Italo-German alliance is indissoluble," Hitler said.

"It will be seen that neither of us has been sleeping during this winter. The Italians did good service for many long months when only a few submarines were available."

"Italy kept a strong British force busy in the Mediterranean. For us the sea struggle will now only begin. We have had to train crews for new submarines which now are coming. That they will soon begin activity no body should doubt."

"The time element cannot frighten me. I have learned to wait. I have never been idle. I was busy ten years before any big power got started."

The Fuehrer ridiculed reports that Britain was seriously contemplating an offensive.

"If they come I suppose I will have to chase them," he said. "But I assure you we will get them wherever we find them."

Have Great Machine

"This confidence is based on the realization that we possess the greatest military machine of all times. Behind it stands the German nation, unified and determined."

"No power on earth can destroy this unity, which is one that would be undreamed-of in the democracies."

"Their chief hope is of a future revolution in Germany. I don't know what kind of a revolution they are expecting. There may be a few insane people left in Germany, people who might believe in the possibility of such a revolution."

"But they are fortunately behind bars."

"Germany is stronger than it has ever been, and better guided than it ever was. Above all, I thank the Gods that I am young and hale and hearty enough to assume the leadership in this final struggle."

And particularly now I feel better than ever. I feel that spring is in the air."

Within the last 48 hours, he said, German U-boats and war planes have sunk 215,000 tons of British shipping of which 90,000 tons were warships.

"It will be much more from the first of April onward," he said.

"Wherever British ships appear and where Britain will fight us. We will fight them and destroy them."

Italian cooperation will be complete in battling the British navy in the Mediterranean, he said.

Germany stands ready and waiting for a threatened British initiative this spring, Hitler declared.

There have been similar British predictions in the past, Hitler said, and evoked a roar of laughter when he added:

"For no mortal has downfall ever been prophesied so often as to me, and no one ever has been told so many times that his defeat was imminent."

"But I have become entirely indifferent to such predictions." Hitler spoke to his old-line comrades and the German nation from the same spot where 21 years ago he first outlined the Nazi party program.

The Pickaway County Tournament is ready to swing into the semi-finals this week and both AHS teams are still in. The varsity basketballers met and defeated a recent conqueror, Scioto, in a good game Saturday night. The score was 39 to 31 and a few minutes before the end of the game it was 35 to 20. This will give you an idea of how the Bronks were playing. At no time were they in danger of losing the lead.

The Reserves from AHS also performed credibly to defeat New Holland by a 31 to 21 count. This Friday's games will see our team take on the "nearly-taken" Pickaway outfit at 9 p. m. in what should prove to be a highly interesting as well as important game. Nearly-taken by Red Roush's Saltrecks flashes, the Pickaway boys finally out-stayed their opponents and pulled away to a ten point lead as the final whistle blew. At 7 p. m. New Holland

New 'March of Time' Film at the Grand

IN the dozen nations which Adolf Hitler's armies have conquered there are 85 million people, today reduced to vassalage and made to contribute to the building of the new and greater Nazi German State. Under a military order, two million prisoners of war have been formed into labor battalions to reconstruct for German use the railroads, bridges and other public works destroyed during the fighting. Watched over by military guards and pushed to the limit of their endurance, once-free European fathers and brothers now work side by side in slavery.

THESE and other uncensored scenes in the latest March of Time entitled "Uncle Sam—The Non-Belligerent" are taken from the contraband Nazi newsreels, Deutsche Wochenschau, intended for showing in South America only. This film, intercepted and seized by British officials, was obtained from the Canadian Film Commissioner for exclusive use by The March of Time. French prisoners in a bucket brigade (above left), French children standing in line with pails to receive soup rations from their Nazi conquerors (above right), and many similar scenes included in the March of Time film, appearing at the Grand Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, have taken on a meaning entirely different from that originally intended by the Nazi Propaganda Ministry, which has been attempting to frighten South American countries away from cooperation with the U. S. in hemisphere defense.

Corn Cob Plays Important Role In Government's Defense Plans

By Austin Showman

Until recently the corn cob was one of those farm by-products which suffered from an inferiority complex. It was stripped of its outer coating of yellow kernels and then discarded around the farm and at the grain elevators. Some lay by themselves in the rain and mud, others were shoveled up and burned because folk believed they were good for nothing else. The only hope in life for any cob was that it might find its way into the mouth of a jug to serve as a make-shift stopper, or that its inside might be punched out, a hollow reed poked into its side, its stomach filled with tobacco and set afire. Occasionally one might find its way into the "Who's Who" in the corn cob world by serving its master faithfully in such a capacity, but for the majority of its fellows, life was practically worthless.

POE ON CAVALCADE

Author-poet Edgar Allan Poe takes his place in the "Cavalcade of America" Wednesday, in an original radio play by post-playwright Norman Rosten, based on hitherto unpublished research, revealed by distinguished Poe authority, Victor Thaddeus.

Author Rosten, himself a modern poet of note, aided by the recent Thaddeus revelations, and the intensive research of Dr. Frank Monaghan, has created an image of Edgar Allan Poe, man of mystery that will live again for one brief moment on "Cavalcade of America".

An all-radio cast including Carl Swenson as Poe, supported by such airway luminaries as Jeanette Nolan and her gifted husband, John McIntire, Edwin Jerome and Ray Collins, all of the Cavalcade Players, insures a sensitive and dramatic performance.

Don Voorhees conducts his own original musical score especially created for "Cavalcade of America's", "The Story of Edgar Allan Poe".

Short Illness Is Fatal To Bank Director, Official Of Grain Company

OPERATED DRUG STORE

Rites To Be Wednesday At 2 At Residence; Mother And Widow Survive

Clarence W. Squire, one of Ashville's most prominent businessmen, died Sunday at 4:55 a. m. in Grant Hospital, Columbus, where he had been a patient since last Tuesday.

Mr. Squire's fatal illness developed during the last week. He was able to be about his usual activities, but had complained of a slight fever. Later the fever developed and he was taken to the hospital where it was found he suffered from an appendix ailment of unusual nature.

Mr. Squire, a native of Columbus, was active in many of Ashville's businesses. He operated a drug and dry goods store, was a director of the Ashville Banking Co., and vice-president of the Scioto Grain and Supply Co. He was a member of the Circleville Masonic Lodge, of the Scottish Rite in Columbus and the Knights of Pythias of Ashville.

He was a son of Daniel H. and Florence Crosswell Squire, his mother surviving. His father was a native of Canada. Also surviving are his widow, Addie Thorne Squire, a son Emerson of New York City and a sister, Mrs. Henry Snyder of near Ashville.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the residence, 94 Main Street, the Revs. H. M. Wilbur and O. W. Smith officiating. Burial will be in Reher Hill Cemetery by E. F. Schlegel.

Our Tom Acord, high boss about "headquarters" and a lot to say in the court, has had the place closed up tight for the last couple of days and is abed a part of the time. Word direct from the home this morning is of the "some better" sort. Back at the old stand again within a few days, we'd say.

Today the last Monday of the month which means time this evening for the regular monthly meeting of the Community Club business session and banquet at the Mrs. Pontius restaurant.

Mrs. Marvin Lindsey who with Mrs. Harley Hoover has been visiting in the South for some time returned to her home here Sunday morning. . . Glenn Malone, according to word he gave us, is off on a few days' outing to Washington and agreed to tell us all about it soon as he returns. . . The death of the Mr. Hoppes which recently occurred over at Springfield reminds us that his parents and brothers were Madison Township natives removing from there to this village where they resided for several years, later removing to Springfield. . .

A few evenings ago we had with us the high school song birds from all over the county in a sort up and out meet, Prof. Ellis Snyder acting the part of sortee. There were some hundred and a half in the collection. April 3 is the date chosen for the festival at the local school auditorium. Orchestra, too, of some 70 pieces. . .

Francis Campbell and family have removed to their recently purchased home known as the Allie Alsbaugh dwelling. . . C. A. Cium is again in charge of the cream station at the Plum building. . . Agnes, Mrs. Evans now lives at Gallon. . . Mrs. Tosca is now at her home East Main Street, the Schlegel ambulance returning her from Grant hospital Friday.

The Pickaway County Tournament is ready to swing into the semi-finals this week and both AHS teams are still in. The varsity basketballers met and defeated a recent conqueror, Scioto, in a good game Saturday night. The score was 39 to 31 and a few minutes before the end of the game it was 35 to 20. This will give you an idea of how the Bronks were playing. At no time were they in danger of losing the lead.

The Reserves from AHS also performed credibly to defeat New Holland by a 31 to 21 count. This Friday's games will see our team take on the "nearly-taken" Pickaway outfit at 9 p. m. in what should prove to be a highly interesting as well as important game. Nearly-taken by Red Roush's Saltcreek flashes, the Pickaway boys finally out-stayed their opponents and pulled away to a ten point lead as the final whistle blew. At 7 p. m. New Holland

NEW AMBULANCE BEING OPERATED BY DEFENBAUGH

A one-purpose ambulance, believed to be the first straight motor ambulance ever used in the county, arrived at the Defenbaugh Funeral Home, Saturday, ready for service.

The $3,300 hospital on wheels is equipped with a medicine cabinet carrying first aid supplies. A reclining chair cot for the patient is held to the left side of the ambulance with an electric fastener, with two attendants' chairs placed along the right side, both of which may be removed and a second cot added. A low floor gives occupants plenty of head room, while its overall length of 24 1/2 inches provides adequate space for necessary appliances.

Grab rails are built along the side, and a combination heater and circulating unit in the front on either side of the medicine cabinet. Genuine leather upholstery makes the inside of the vehicle easy to keep clean. Patients may be loaded from the rear or from either side.

Two red flasher lights and a siren in front have been added to clear traffic and afford a right of way, assuring quick delivery of the patient. The top part is painted French Gray and the bottom, including the fenders, Verola Blue.

The ambulance is equipped with a 120 horsepower Packard motor, the all steel body being manufactured by the Henney Motor Company, Freeport, Ill. The car was driven from the factory in Freeport to the Ohio distributor in Delaware. It was brought from Delaware to Circleville by Harold Defenbaugh.

Its purchase provides the Defenbaugh Funeral Home with a fleet of Packard cars, a Packard sears, and two Packard sedans already having been in service.

hauled to the Circleville plant from elevators outside the county in order that National Defense orders might be filled.

At the plant at the end of West Main Street, the cobs are milled, ground into various grades of fineness and shipped to industrial plants in New England. Remington Arms, Peters, Winchester, Marlin, New Departure, Republic Steel, Thompson Products and Du Pont all are using Pickaway County corn cobs for polishing their arms products. The milled cobs are used to clean grease and dirt from rifle barrels and from the lining of heavier gun barrels, to polish airplane cylinders and movable parts on other mechanized equipment.

No other product is added to the cobs to produce the polish. After they are milled they are packed in 50 pounds sacks and shipped out by rail. If more cobs could be obtained, Maizo Mills could operate on a 24-hour basis, officials claim.

Winding up their Latin-American tour, the Vox Poppers, Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth, will do their broadcast for Thursday, at 7:30 p. m. from Havana, Cuba. Previously covered in this unique series of "good will" broadcasts have been Mexico City and Puerto Rico. By combining the radio appearance of English-speaking nationals of the countries they visit, as well as that of Americans long resident in those nations, Johnson and Butterworth present interesting portraits of the lands which are the backgrounds of their shows. The boys have been practically mobbed by fans eager to see these American radio stars whom they had been hearing for years by tuning in to mainland stations.

DEVELOPMENTS SEEN IN TOWNS ON N. & W. LINE

Nineteen forty was the biggest year of industrial development in the territory served by the Norfolk and Western Railway in any twelve month period during the last decade, T. Gilbert Wood, N. & W. industrial and agricultural manager, said in his annual report, released Monday.

Last year saw the establishment of 236 new plants and additions, with a total investment of $229,808,357 and employing 48,177 persons. The 1940 report shows an increase of 37 plants over 1939, increased capitalization of more than $210,000,000 and 41,000 more workers. The latter figure does not include employees engaged in construction of national defense projects.

Commenting on the prospects for this year, Mr. Wood said, "We are anticipating, during 1941, a continued increase in enlargements of many existing plants and the establishment of a creditable number of new industries in the territory served by the Norfolk and Western."

Pointing to the steady industrial development along the railroad, the report gives the number of industries established during the past ten years as follows: 1931—145 plants; 1932—180; 1933—152; 1934—168; 1935—195; 1936—196; 1937—204; 1938—158; 1939—199; 1940—236, or a total of 1,833 industries and additions. These industries employed 131,574 persons and had a capitalization of $385,257,679.

FEDERATION OF DEMOCRACIES

THERE is a drive coming in this country to organize public opinion for a world confederation of democracies. It is expected to work first for world peace, starting with the United States and Britain as a constitutional union, aiming for a world confederation when the war is over. The promoters call themselves the Inter-Democracy Federal Unionists and are said to be more or less connected with the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. The movement is headed by Clarence K. Streit, author of "Union Now."

It seeks "union now of the democratic nations as the nucleus of a world government of, by and for the people." Its purposes are given as follows:
"To prevent war, to bring economic recovery, to save the individual liberties, by creating as soon as possible a constitutional federal union of those nations which hold that the state is made for man and the government must be conducted with the consent of the governed." The union would be expected to spread peacefully around the world by "admission, as soon as possible, of additional outside nations that guarantee their citizens the union's rights of man."

This is obviously an undertaking noble in purpose. Some day, if our civilization pulls through, it may be achieved. In the meantime it is worth discussing. The nucleus would be the United States and Britain, both strong and both going concerns in this line. All the American republics, it might be assumed, should be in it; but at present, while they have republican constitutions like ours, they are mostly operated as virtual dictatorships. The British dominions are obviously fitted for membership.

A SEA WAR

COMMAND of the air is important, but victory goes to the nation that commands the seas. It is by sea power that Britain has become great and remained great for centuries. Sea fleets still do what air fleets cannot do, by greater carrying and striking power delivered at longer distances.

Thus it is sea power that has enabled the British to win their spectacular victories in Africa and regain command of the Mediterranean. And Britain still "rules the waves", although recent air and under-sea assaults have threatened to weaken her supremacy.

It is argued by Walter Lippman, accordingly, that the conflict now rolling

ITALY puzzles Washington's military observers of the war situation and its diplomatic observers alike. One hears expressions of their bewilderment on every hand. They didn't consider the Fascist realm a formidable fighting power any of the time, but they didn't expect it to fizzle as completely and as rapidly as it has. They're glad that it's done so, but they certainly are surprised.

Duce Mussolini never was popular here, but he was rated as a strong man and his judgment was rated as pretty good. He took his country in hand at a juncture when it undoubtedly was in a shocking state of disorganization and soon set it a-running not unsatisfactorily in an economic and industrial way. He did it at the expense of its liberties, to be sure, but he systematized things quite effectively. As a dictator he wasn't liked but he was assessed as a competent one of his pattern and as thoroughly tough.

It was taken for granted, too, that the bulk of Italians must be solidly behind him—not the ones he castor oiled, of course, but the big majority. Otherwise, it was argued, he couldn't be getting away with his program so successfully.

As remarked above, nobody surmised that Italy could make much of a showing, at war, single handed, with a premier power. When Benito undertook to invade Greece, though, I heard it spoken of by recognized authorities in Washington as comparable to an assault by Joe Louis on a six-year-old kid. And look what's followed!

UPSETTING, AT LEAST! Washington officialdom doesn't take a full face value Rome's denials of rumors of anti-Fascist disorders in various Italian cities. It doesn't seem possible, at this end of the line, that Italians can be otherwise than tremendously upset by their army's repeated defeats by the Greeks and the rapidly approaching loss of their whole African empire. In Africa it's had enough for them to be driven into oblivion by the British, but to be chased out by Haile Selassie and his Abyssinian followers! That's the limit!

They not only can't lick the Greeks; they can't even lick the Ethiopians. Worse, they're being licked BY 'em.

True, this news unquestionably is being more or less kept from the Italian people at home by Benito's censorship. Still, it's reckoned that they can't but get some inkling of what's going on. It's inconceivable that it isn't unfavorable advertising for Signor Mussolini.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE
WASHINGTON—The Capitol of the United States has seen all sorts of lobbies come and go, but few that have had such a mushroom growth and such wide ramifications as the America First Committee.

In recent weeks this organization has not been much publicized—as such. Its sympathizers have taken responsibility for their own statements. But it would be a mistake to assume that the America First Committee is not active.

Few of the Senators whom it seeks to influence realize it, but copies of America First correspondence which have come to the attention of some legislators show that in a few short weeks the Committee has built up an organization which extends its influence to numerous radio stations, preachers, and anti-war groups, and has its own confidential observers in the Capitol.

Leading members of the America First Committee are Alice Longworth, Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, Hanford McNider (Coolidge's Assistant Secretary of War), William R. Castle (Hoover's Under Secretary of State), Mrs. Bennett Clark, General Hugh Johnson, Irvin S. Cobb, and General Robert E. Wood, who is head of the organization and also of Sears, Roebuck and Company. However, they appear willing to remain in the background.

In fact, that is one of the main features of the lobbying methods of the America First Committee—it does not reveal all of its far-flung activities to the public.

Thus Lee Williams, a member of the Committee's staff, sent out to radio station managers various transcriptions of speeches by Senator Nye, Senator Wheeler, ex-Governor Alf Landon, and other isolationists. But in sending the records for re-broadcast, Williams cautioned:

"These recordings do not mention the name of the America First Committee. They are simple messages from the speakers to the people. The sole function of the Committee is to cooperate with these speakers in the distribution of the recordings."

No mention is made as to where the funds are raised to pay for these radio recordings but it is clear that the senators are not paying for them themselves.

MESSAGE TO PREACHERS

This same desire to keep the America First Committee in the background was apparent in an inner office memorandum of February 3, signed "R. D. S. Jr." (presumably R. Douglas Stuart, Jr., Director of the Committee) and sent to members of the staff. It read:
"With reference to the memo written (Continued on Page Eight)

erations in Albania, Africa and the Mediterranean.

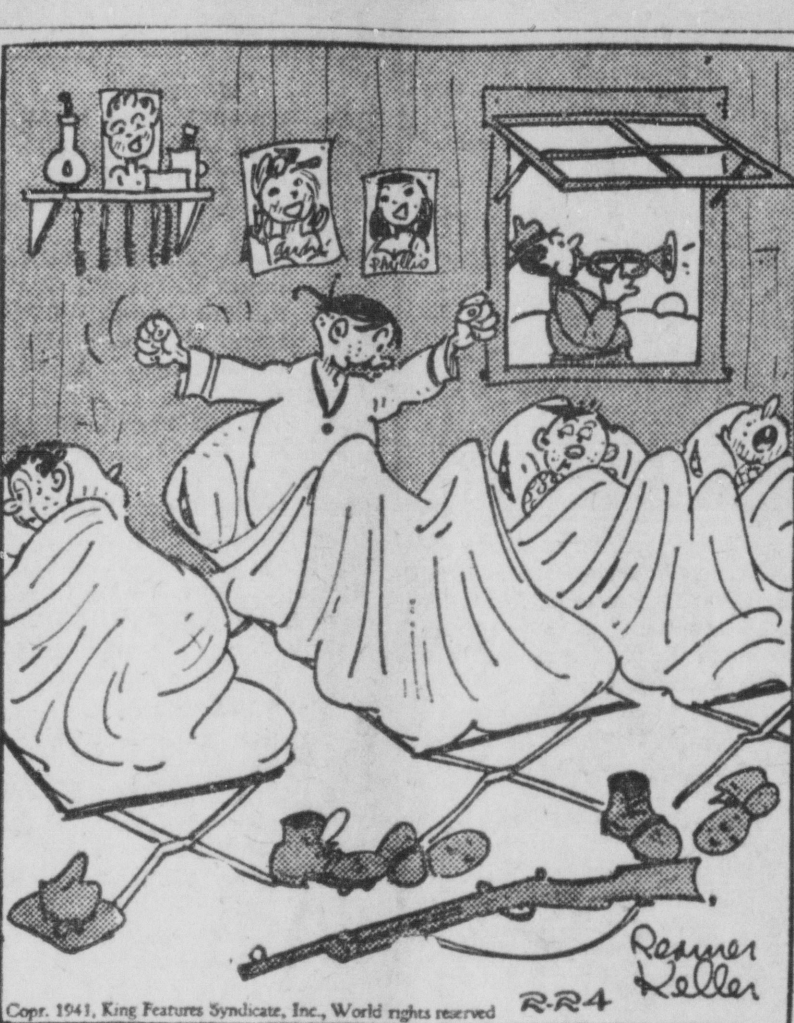

Adolf, in his book, "Mein Kampf," referred to Italy as "naturally a weak state," but he said it had been "greatly strengthened by Fascism."

Does he still believe the latter? American expert diplomatic critics persistently predict that Adolf very soon will arrange to have Benito eliminated—not necessarily assassinated, but dictatorially disposed of by an internal Italian uprising, of Adolf's own promotion. They suspect that if, as reported, there already have been disturbances, Adolf instigated or encouraged 'em.

ANOTHER STAGE?
For Germans to butt in and take obvious control of the peninsula would be tactless. It would be better to have an Italian stooge of Adolf's on the job in place of Benito. It isn't that Benito isn't by nature, sufficiently totalitarian; the trouble with him is, he's a bone-headed one.

Adolf must have originally thought Benito was O. K.

Failure of Diets

ample of human nature, or the excellent results that have been obtained by this persistency."

Nowhere in all dietary treatment is it more necessary to impress this on a patient than in the management of overweight by a reducing diet.

There is probably no condition to the guidance of which medical men direct their attention that records a larger percentage of failures than the treatment of obesity.

And there is no other condition in which good results can be obtained with such certainty and mathematical precision.

Must Stick to It
So we must assume that the fault in most cases lies with the laxity of poor, weak human nature. The doctor who arranges a good diet for his overweight patient and who is told it doesn't work, knows the patient is lying. He doesn't have to guess, he knows.

There is, of course, a very respectable percentage of cases that take the matter seriously enough to seek a doctor's advice and follow the advice long enough to lose a considerable amount of weight. Then they are unwilling to stay on a maintenance diet, and failure results because after a short time the regimen weakens them and the scale rapidly shows a return to the same or larger figures than in the beginning.

Almost as common a cause of failure in reducing as lack of stick-to-it-iveness is lack of intelligence. In order to reduce intelligently you will have to study the caloric values of foods. You do not have to count the calories, but you have to know them in a general way.

The object is to lose fat, not muscle. Don't lose strength. So take some exercise and take daily protein. Reducing on orange juice alone is not healthy.

EVELESS EDEN

RELEATED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

BILL LATHAM, young novelist, after having been jilted a few seconds before he was to have been married, and.

JOEL RANDALL, his older cousin, go to an old North Carolina mountain cabin, where owned by Joel's late uncle, for a vacation.

EVE ALLGOOD, a young and pretty school teacher, meets Joel through an accident to her car.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

"HOW EXCITING," said Eve, when Joel told her his cousin was an author. "I wonder if I've ever read any of his stuff."

"Perhaps."

"Well, for goodness sake, why so reticent? What's his name?"

"William Randall Latham."

"Oh! . . . Not REALLY?"

"Yes, really," said Joel, somewhat annoyed.

"Then I have read his work," Eve said. "I adored that book of his called 'To Reno and Back.'"

"You did? Bill nearly always works in a divorce."

"Yes, I noticed that. I've often wondered if he'd had one himself."

"No, divorce is one thing Bill hasn't experienced. After all, a writer doesn't have to commit murder to write about one."

"Of course not! Then he's happily married?"

"No—he's still a bachelor."

"How interesting—a bachelor writing so perfectly about marriage."

"I'd say Bill writes imperfectly about marriage—I mean none of his marriages turn out perfectly."

Joel wanted to stop talking about Bill. He wanted the girl to forget Bill existed, and finish her lunch. He liked having her around, but he also wanted her to go. He wanted to see her a few times before Bill met her—to sort of establish his own personality, if he had one, before Bill started in turning on his charm. "Have some more eggs, Eve."

"No, thanks," Eve looked at her watch. "Good heavens, look at the time. I've got to be getting home. Mother will wonder what on earth's the matter."

"You can't drive with that ankle of yours," said Joel. "You won't be able to use it on the foot brake or the gas."

"I think I can manage," said Eve. "But I will have to ask you to help me get the car out of the collards. You can back it out for me, and I'll manage the rest."

"All right," said Joel. "I'll get the car out of the collards for you. But I still think you oughtn't to drive. How about me driving you home?"

"That's awfully kind of you,"

Joel said. "But how will you get back?"

"Say, that is a problem!" said Joel. But all of a sudden he wanted very much to drive Eve home. Maybe he could hire a car in Hickory Gap. "I'm willing to risk it," he said. "Finding a way to get back."

"You could leave a note for your cousin," Eve suggested. "telling him where you are, and asking him to drive down and get you."

"Yes, I could do that," said Joel, "but—"

"May I come in?" said a voice in the doorway.

Joel and Eve were startled. They glanced toward the front door of the cabin. William Randall Latham was standing there upon the threshold, smiling at them.

"You are in, it seems to me," Joel said ungraciously.

Bill crossed the room.

"I got away for a few hours," he said, looking at Eve, "and look what happens! My slow-poke of a cousin finds himself a beautiful mountain maid, and—"

"Bill," said Joel, "this is Miss Allgood. Miss Allgood, my cousin, Mr. Latham."

"Hello!" said Eve—and she had that look that all the girls got when they discovered Bill.

"Hello, yourself!" said Bill. "I was wondering how that car got in among Joel's collards. It's yours, I take it."

"It is," said Eve. "Joel's been wonderful, too, about my messing up his vegetables in such a shocking manner."

"So you call him Joel? Well, well!"

"Of course she does," said Joel.

"And I call her Eve. After all, we're neighbors, more or less."

Bill threw back his head and laughed.

"And you tried to scare me off by telling me this was an Eden without an Eve?" he said. "Joel, you sly old fox, you!"

It seemed to Joel that he sensed something of a patronizing tone in Bill's voice, and for a moment he thoroughly resented it.

"Now that you're here," he said, "you might give Eve her lipstick."

"Yes," said Eve, "if you don't mind. Lipsticks are hard to get hold of up here."

"So you're the lipstick loser!" said Bill. He took it from his pocket.

"I'd like to use the finding of this little trinket in a story. I hope you have no objections."

"None whatever," said Eve.

"Why should I have?"

Bill smiled at her as only Bill could smile at a lovely girl, and said: "I might even want to use you in the story."

Eve laughed. "How marvelous!"

For Monday, February 24
Monday's astrological forecast should be for excellent opportunity for success and good fortune, with many and divers factors contributing toward this end. However, there may be sudden and disagreeable situations of a disrupting aspect, causing excess expenditure of funds and energy. There are similar unforeseen dangers lurking in romantic, emotional or domestic experiences calling for circumspect and wise handling.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may expect many openings for a prosperous, progressive and productive year, although there may be sudden and disturbing upheavals or changes of plans and environs. In this shun excess expenditures or indulgences. The romantic or emotional life may be disturbed or suffer surprising denouements unless well safeguarded by proper discrimination.

A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed with intellectual forces and faculties, fitting it for any number of accomplishments of high order. Its nature should be warm, luxurious, pleasure loving and extravagant, and it may be much imposed upon because of this softness of character.

FEDERATION OF DEMOCRACIES
THERE is a drive coming in this country to organize public opinion for a world confederation of democracies. It is expected to work first for world peace, starting with the United States and Britain as a constitutional union, aiming for a world confederation when the war is over. The promoters call themselves the Inter-Democracy Federal Unionists and are said to be more or less connected with the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. The movement is headed by Clarence K. Streit, author of "Union Now." It seeks "union now of the democratic nations as the nucleus of a world government of, by and for the people." Its purposes are given as follows:

"To prevent war, to bring economic recovery, to save the individual liberties, by creating as soon as possible a constitutional federal union of those nations which hold that the state is made for man and the government must be conducted with the consent of the governed." The union would be expected to spread peacefully around the world by "admission, as soon as possible, of additional outside nations that guarantee their citizens the union's rights of man."

This is obviously an undertaking noble in purpose. Some day, if our civilization pulls through, it may be achieved. In the meantime it is worth discussing. The nucleus would be the United States and Britain, both strong and both going concerns in this line. All the American republics, it might be assumed, should be in it; but at present, while they have republican constitutions like ours, they are mostly operated as virtual dictatorships. The British dominions are obviously fitted for membership.

Nowhere in all dietetic treatment is it more necessary to impress this on a patient than in the management of overweight by a reducing diet.
There is probably no condition to the guidance of which medical men direct their attention that records a larger percentage of failures than the treatment of obesity.
And there is no other condition in which good results can be obtained with such certainty and mathematical precision.

Must Stick to It
So we must assume that the fault in most cases lies with the laxity of poor, weak human nature. The doctor who arranges a good diet for his overweight patient and who is told it doesn't work, knows the patient is lying. He doesn't have to guess, he knows.

There is, of course, a very respectable percentage of cases that take the matter seriously enough to seek a doctor's advice and follow the advice long enough to lose a considerable amount of weight. Then they are unwilling to stay on a maintenance diet, and failure results because after a short time the regimen wears them and the scale rapidly shows a return to the same or larger figures than in the beginning.
Almost as common a cause of failure in reducing as lack of stick-to-it-iveness is lack of intelligence. In order to reduce intelligently you will have to study the caloric values of foods. You do not have to count the calories, but you have to know them in a general way.
The object is to lose fat, not muscle. Don't lose strength. So take some exercise and take daily protein. Reducing on orange juice alone is not healthy.

SYNOPSIS
BILL LATHAM, young novelist, after having been jilted a few seconds before he was to have been married, and JOEL RANDALL, his older cousin, go to an old North Carolina mountain cabin, owned by Joel's late uncle, for a vacation.
EVE ALLGOOD, a young and pretty school teacher, meets Joel through an accident to her car.
YESTERDAY: Eve has lunch with Joel at the cabin.
CHAPTER FIFTEEN
"HOW EXCITING," said Eve, when Joel told her his cousin was an author. "I wonder if I've ever read any of his stuff."
"Perhaps."
"Well, for goodness sake, why so reticent? What's his name?"
"William Randall Latham."
"Oh! . . . Not REALLY?"
"Yes, really," said Joel, somewhat annoyed.
"Then I have read his work," Eve said. "I adored that book of his called 'To Reno and Back.'"
"You did? Bill nearly always works in a divorce."
"Yes, I noticed that. I've often wondered if he'd had one himself."
"No, divorce is one thing Bill hasn't experienced. After all, a writer doesn't have to commit murder to write about one."
"Of course not! Then he's happily married?"
"No—he's still a bachelor."
"How interesting—a bachelor writing so perfectly about marriage."
"I'd say Bill writes imperfectly about marriage—I mean none of his marriages turn out perfectly." Joel wanted to stop talking about Bill. He wanted the girl to forget Bill existed, and finish her lunch. He liked having her around, but he also wanted her to go. He wanted to see her a few times before Bill met her—to sort of establish his own personality, if he had one, before Bill started in turning on his charm. "Have some more eggs, Eve."
"No, thanks." Eve looked at her watch. "Good heavens, look at the time. I've got to be getting home. Mother will wonder what on earth's the matter."
"You can't drive with that ankle of yours," said Joel. "You won't be able to use it on the foot brake or the gas."
"I think I can manage," said Eve. "But I will have to ask you to help me get the car out of the collards. You can back it out for me, and I'll manage the rest."
"All right," said Joel. "I'll get the car out of the collards for you. But I still think you oughtn't to drive. How about me driving you home?"
"That's awfully kind of you, Joel," Eve said. "How marvelous!"
Joel's Eve said. "But how will you get back?"
"Say, that is a problem!" said Joel. But all of a sudden he wanted very much to drive Eve home. Maybe he could hire a car in Hickory Gap. "I'm willing to risk it," he said. "Finding a way to get back."
"You could leave a note for your cousin," Eve suggested, "telling him where you are, and asking him to drive down and get you."
"Yes, I could do that," said Joel, "but—"
"May I come in?" said a voice in the doorway.
Joel and Eve were startled. They glanced toward the front door of the cabin. William Randall Latham was standing there upon the threshold, smiling at them.
"You are in, it seems to me," Joel said ungraciously.
Bill crossed the room.
"I got away for a few hours," he said, looking at Eve. "And look what happens! My slow-poke of a cousin finds himself a beautiful mountain maid, and—"
"Bill," said Joel, "this is Miss Allgood, Miss Allgood, my cousin, Mr. Latham."
"Hello!" said Eve—and she had that look that all the girls got when they discovered Bill.
"Hello, yourself!" said Bill. "I was wondering how that car got in among Joel's collards. It's yours, I take it."
"It is," said Eve. "Joel's been wonderful, too, about my messing up his vegetables in such a shocking manner."
"So you call him Joel! Well, well!"
"Of course she does," said Joel. "And I call her Eve. After all, we're neighbors, more or less."
Bill threw back his head and laughed.
"And you tried to scare me off by telling me this was an Eden without an Eve?" he said. "Joel, you sly old fox, you!"
It seemed to Joel that he sensed something of a patronizing tone in Bill's voice, and for a moment he thoroughly resented it.
"Now that you're here," he said, "you might give Eve her lipstick."
"Yes," said Eve, "if you don't mind. Lipsticks are hard to get hold of up here."
"So you're the lipstick loser!" said Bill. He took it from his pocket. "I'd like to use the finding of this little trinket in a story. I hope you have no objections."
"None whatever," said Eve. "Why should I have?"
Bill smiled at her as only Bill could smile at a lovely girl, and said: "I might even want to use you in the story."
Eve laughed. "How marvelous!"

she said. "Being immortalized by the author, Mr. William Randall Latham."
"So Joel told you?" said Bill.
"Yes, I told her," said Joel. "She's even read one of your books."
"One of them!" said Eve. "All of them!"
"Say, that's darned swell of you!"
"Not at all. Reading your books up here in the wilds sort of keeps me in touch with the sophisticated outside world." Eve got up, holding to the table. "They keep me in training, so to speak. Show me how to talk and walk in a drawing room."
"Are you," said Bill, "kidding my books, by any chance?"
"Good heavens, NO! I like them, really I do."
"Just another part of your dear public," said Joel.
"If one of you gentlemen will hand me my shoe," Eve said, "I'll be on my way."
"What's the matter?" Bill asked solicitously. "Are you hurt?"
"It's my ankle," said Eve. "Just like in a book."
"Let me help you!" Quick as a flash Bill was at the girl's side. "Here, hold on to my arm."
Eve did so, while Joel got her slipper.
"Do you want to put it on?" he asked.
"I'm afraid I can't put it on." Eve answered. "My foot is swollen."
"Look here," said Bill, "you can't be walking with a foot like that. . . I'll carry you. But, wait a minute, where is it you want to go?"
"Home. Down to Hickory Gap." "You mean you're going to try to drive your car?"
"Of course. I've got to get home. I should have been there long ago." "Then I'll take you," Bill said. "Joel's car is right outside. I'll have you home in no time."
"But, Bill," Joel began, "Eve wants to get her own car going." "Nonsense!" said Bill. "Forget your car, Eve—I can call you that, can't I?"
"Of course. Your cousin is doing it."
"Leave your car right there in the garden," Bill went on. "I'll take you home and come back for you tomorrow. Meanwhile Joel and I'll get your car out of the collards, and have it all shined up for you."
"Will you?" Eve said relieved. "That would be grand of you—but—"
"No buts," Bill interrupted. "It's all settled. Come on, put your arm around my neck."

STARS SAY—
For Monday, February 24
Monday's astrological forecast should be for excellent opportunity for success and good fortune, with many and divers factors contributing toward this end. However, there may be sudden and disagreeable situations of a disrupting aspect, causing excess expenditure of funds and energy. There are similar unforeseen dangers lurking in romantic, emotional or domestic experiences calling for circumspect an dwise handling.
If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may expect many openings for a prosperous, progressive and productive year, although there may be sudden and disturbing upheavals or changes of plans and environs. In this shun excess expenditures or indulgences. The romantic or emotional life may be disturbed or suffer surprising denouements unless well safeguarded by proper discrimination.
A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed with intellectual forces and faculties, fitting it for any number of accomplishments of high order. Its nature should be warm, luxurious, pleasant loving and extravagant, and it may be much imposed upon because of this softness of character.

Hedges Chapel's Silver Tea Is Well Attended

Musical Program
Enjoyed By 160
Persons

About 160, including guests from Circleville, New Holland, Williamsport, Commercial Point, Stoutsville and Ashville, attended the annual silver tea Saturday at Hedges Chapel. An outstanding musical program marked the delightful social event.

The guests were received by Miss Helen Ruth Lamb, Miss Donna Dill and Miss Metta Mae Hickman. Mrs. Martin Cromley extended them a cordial welcome before the program opened with a violin duet, "Hungary", by Mrs. Gordon Dunkel and Miss Hickman. The two vocal solos, "Trees" and "America, We Love Thee", sung by Mrs. Ralph Hosier were followed by a Glockenspiel solo, "Stars and Stripes Forever", by Miss Joan Brinker. Rosemary Fisher, 5, a quaint figure in a frock which her mother had worn as a child, presented a vocal solo, "Two Little Girls in Blue." Miss Donna Dill's piano solo, Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in F-minor", preceded two vocal solos, "The Little Gray-Blue Dove" and "The Rural Song" by Mrs. Rousch.

A vocal trio, Miss Dill, Miss Hickman and Miss Lamb, presented two selections, "Bend in the River" and "The Old Village Choir." Three piano duets by Mrs. Joseph Peters and Miss Elizabeth Reber closed the program. Their selections were "Minuet" from "Don Juan" by Mozart; "Gondolieri" by Nevin and "The Village Blacksmith" by Handel-Verdi.

Mrs. Cromley and Miss Reber were piano accompanists for the various numbers. Mrs. Harold Hines playing a violin obligato for one of Mrs. Rousch's solos.

After a brief social hour, the guests gathered around a tea table where a bowl of red, white and blue flowers centered the lovely lace cloth over blue. All party appointments and the refreshments used the red, white and blue color theme, tall candles casting a soft glow over the silver tea and coffee services where Mrs. John Hedges and Mrs. Homer Reber presided. The room was artistically decorated in the prevailing color theme and lighted with many candles.

THE COLONEL'S LADY

THERE'S this about the new military fashions that are sweeping the country just now. You can take 'em or you can leave 'em alone.

If you're a girl who loves uniforms, you may go about dressed up in gold braid, brass buttons and epaulets from morning to night. Or if you sling to theory that uniforms should remain in the army, you may choose your spring wardrobe from as fluttery and feminine a selection as you desire.

New spring suits are being shown in every possible variation of the military theme, even to exact fabric duplication of the khaki and the blue of the Army and Navy. So look them over and take your choice.

The khaki Air Corps suit pictured above is almost an exact duplicate of the uniform of the U. S. Air Corps (except for the skirt, of course). The tunic has the regulation wings insignia, even on its buttons. Flyers' wives and sweethearts go for this one in a big way.

Hedges Chapel's Silver Tea Is Well Attended

Musical Program
• Enjoyed By 160
Persons

About 160, including guests from Circleville, New Holland, Williamsport, Commercial Point, Stoutsville and Ashville, attended the annual silver tea Saturday at Hedges Chapel. An outstanding musical program marked the delightful social event.

The guests were received by Miss Helen Ruth Lamb, Miss Donna Dill and Miss Metta Mae Hickman. Mrs. Martin Cromley extended them a cordial welcome before the program opened with a violin duet, "Hungary," by Mrs. Gordon Dunkel and Miss Hickman. The two vocal solos, "Trees" and "America, We Love Thee," sung by Mrs. Ralph Hosler were followed by a Glocksenspiel solo, "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Miss Joan Brinker. Rosemary Fisher, 5, a quaint figure in a frock which her mother had worn as a child, presented a vocal solo, "Two Little Girls in Blue." Miss Donna Dill's piano solo, Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in F-minor," preceded two vocal solos, "The Little Gray-Blue Dove" and "The Rural Song" by Mrs. Rousch.

A vocal trio, Miss Dill, Miss Hickman and Miss Lamb, presented two selections, "Bend in the River" and "The Old Village Choir." Three piano duets by Mrs. Joseph Peters and Miss Elizabeth Reber closed the program. Their selections were "Minuet" from "Don Juan" by Mozart; "Gondolieri" by Nevin and "The Village Blacksmith" by Handel-Verdi.

Mrs. Cromley and Miss Reber were piano accompanists for the various numbers. Mrs. Harold Hines playing a violin obligato for one of Mrs. Rousch's solos.

After a brief social hour, the guests gathered around a tea table where a bowl of red, white and blue flowers centered the lovely lace cloth over blue. All party appointments and the refreshments used the red, white and blue color theme, tall candles casting a soft glow over the silver tea and coffee services where Mrs. John Hedges and Mrs. Homer Reber poured. The room was artistically decorated in the prevailing color theme and lighted with many candles.

THE COLONEL'S LADY

THERE'S this about the new military fashions that are sweeping the country just now. You can take 'em or you can leave 'em alone.

If you're a girl who loves uniforms, you may go about dressed up in gold braid, brass buttons and epaulets from morning to night. Or if you sling to theory that uniforms should remain in the army, you may choose your spring wardrobe from as flattery and feminine a selection as you desire.

New spring suits are being shown in every possible variation of the military theme, even to exact fabric duplication of the khaki and the blue of the Army and Navy. So look them over and take your choice.

The khaki Air Corps suit pictured above is almost an exact duplicate of the uniform of the U. S. Air Corps (except for the skirt, of course). The tunic has the regulation wings insignia, even on its buttons. Flyers' wives and sweethearts go for this one in a big way.

C.A.C. Outfit Victor In First A.A.U. Encounter

Circleville Athletic Club cagers, participating in the Central Ohio A.A.U. tournament in Columbus, moved into the second round Sunday night by defeating the U. S. Auto Parts team, 38-36, in a game that saw the local outfit missing 21 free throws and completing only eight.

The game was well played otherwise, the C.A.C. boys playing easy basketball throughout the game. Circleville led 18-17 at halftime and had a 31-26 margin as the last quarter started.

Cooper Oils of Commercial Point, the county's other entrant, dropped a 50-33 game to the Bobb Chevrolets of Columbus, Foster and Otten, both of whom played center, getting 15 field goals and two free throws between them. Snapper Ankrom hit for 14 points for the losers.

Junior Gregg, C.A.C. center, did most of that team's scoring, the ex-Ashville star pumping in six buckets and a free throw.

The C.A.C. plays next Saturday night at 6:30 against the May and Company team of Columbus in the second round.

Dallas Williams' girls team lost a 45-14 decision to the J. and K. team of Columbus.

COMMISSIONERS, ENGINEER CONTEMPLATE MUCH COUNTY ROAD WORK.

INSPECTION OF RURAL ROUTES TO BE STARTED

Many Men To Be Available From WPA Rolls Shortly, Director Says

BRIDGE REPAIRS BEGUN

Favorable Weather Permits Much Relief Activity According To Marcy

County commissioners, together with County Engineer Henry McCrady, made plans Monday for a county-wide blanket road project to be started early this spring.

Next week the commissioners and the county engineer will begin an inspection tour of the 218 miles of county roads to determine which roads are most in need of repair. Actual work on the roads will begin as soon as the weather permits, Engineer McCrady said, with WPA workers being transferred to road projects as soon as other construction projects in the county are completed.

Approximately 30 WPA men have just begun two bridge repair projects north of New Holland on county road Number 25. Plans provide for widening and rebuilding both bridges.

Four miles of the Williamsport-Crownover Mill road now are under construction with about 200 WPA men being employed.

Project now under consideration is a repair project on the Circleville-Winchester road, the plans calling for road repairs on three miles of the road in the northern part of the county. The project has not yet received official approval from the government office and will not begin before another month yet, officials believe.

Men To Be Transferred

Most of the two hundred WPA men now employed on the New Holland water works project will be transferred to the blanket road projects as soon as the New Holland water system has been installed, Relief Director Delos Marcy said.

One other road project, the Logan Elm job, which is employing about 50 men under state supervision, is near completion, and officials believe that some of these men may be transferred to county road jobs.

Funds coming into the county office for WPA are considerably larger than last year, Relief Director Marcy has pointed out, since favorable weather conditions have permitted more WPA activity this winter. The average monthly amount received for WPA labor last year was approximately $30,000.

FIFTY VETERANS PUT NAMES ON QUESTIONNAIRES

Fifty war veterans filled out the American Legion National Defense questionnaire during the registration at the Court House Saturday. James Shea, American Legion commander, said Monday that most of those who registered were American Legion and World War veterans, although some belonged to no organization and two were Spanish-American war veterans.

The questionnaires will be sent out Wednesday, one copy going to the American Legion national headquarters and one to state

New York Police Hunt White Russian's Killer

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—New York police today investigated the mysterious slaying of a former White Russian army colonel, Michael A. Borislavsky, 55, whose body with a bullet hole through the head was found last night behind the wall of a convent in uptown New York.

Motive for the murder was not known although friends of the slain man disclosed that he recently had invented a new bomb which had been favorably received by the United States War Department, and that he was engaged in research on a new smoke screen which he planned to submit to Washington.

Although associates insisted the White Russian officer had "no political affiliation," police intensified their investigation because of the strange death of General Walter G. Krivitsky in a Washington hotel room just two weeks ago. Krivitsky, who had been hiding from the Soviet OGPU, was found with a bullet through his head.

Found Behind Wall
Shot through the right eye, Col. Borislavsky, a powerful man, six feet tall, weighing 300 pounds, with the close-cropped haircut of the Russian army officer, was found lying face down against the wall of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, near 133rd Street, by Dr. Frederick Ziman, a passerby.

Borislavsky, a graduate of the military academy in Russia but for the last 20 years a naturalized citizen of the United States, recently had received favorable communications from the War Department on his bomb, according to his wife, Viora, and was hopeful of receiving as much as $500,000 for his invention.

The former colonel, who held a doctor of science degree and also a degree from Columbia University, left his three-room flat at about 5 p. m. yesterday for a "breath of fresh air," his wife, a hospital worker, said.

Three and a half hours later, Dr. Ziman found him slumped along the convent wall. Assistant Medical Examiner Raymond B. Miles, who hurried to the scene after police were summoned, reported the bullet which had killed the Russian had pierced the right glass of his spectacles, entered the eye, and emerged through the back of the head.

The bullet had ripped through the colonel's shabby derby, which lay about three feet from his body. Police were unable to locate either the gun or the bullet.

Seven Cents in Pocket
The ex-army officer, who borrowed 30 cents from his wife when he left his apartment, had only seven cents in the pockets of his brown imitation fur coat, but the coat was buttoned and there was no indication that he had been a robbery victim.

Mrs. Borislavsky said she did not know whether her husband had been carrying any designs for his invention when he left the apartment. Only some letters written in Russian were found in his pockets.

A garbled cane lay beside the body. Mrs. Borislavsky explained that her husband had been seriously ill from a heart condition for the last seven years and as a result of his illness walked with the aid of a stick.

Col. Peter Zouboff, a friend of Borislavsky and treasurer of the Russian Cathedral of Upper New York, said Borislavsky had served in the engineering corps of the Russian Imperial Army during the World War.

Questioned whether there might be any political significance or international intrigue behind the slaying, Col. Zouboff said, "No. He had no political affiliations. He was a man of science."

It is said that the taking of snuff in the United States is more widely prevalent than is commonly thought. About 9,500 tons a year are consumed, the chief users being foreign-born.

WARNER AT CONVENTION

Lawrence Warner of the Pickaway Grain Company left Monday for Toledo to attend a two-day convention of the Ohio Farmers' Grain Dealers' Association.

headquarters. Those who wish to register may still do so by filling out a questionnaire before Wednesday. Commander Shea reported.

The list of names will be available for service any time that a need arises for the veterans to be called.

Legion members will hold a regular meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Memorial Hall.

FIREMEN ACTIVE IN BLAZE SERIES

Hole Burned In Floor At Himrod's; Spark Blamed For Roof Fire

Fire of undetermined origin in C. W. Himrod's antique shop, South Pickaway Street, Sunday about 3 a. m. burned a hole in the floor of the shop for an estimated damage of $5 before firemen arrived and put it out.

A passerby noticed the fire in the building and called Mr. Himrod, who summoned the fire department.

A spark from the chimney was believed to have caused the fire at the Richard Dixon residence on South Washington Street Saturday afternoon, the fire burning a small hole through the shingle roof near the eaves. Firemen said damage was slight.

Firemen were summoned twice to a dump fire behind the Pickaway County Livestock Association stock yards, when employees feared the fire might spread to the barns. The fire, which is smoldering three to four feet under the ground is not endangering any of the buildings at the present time, firemen report.

LOCAL DEBATERS IN SECOND PLACE IN COMPETITION

Circleville High School debaters added to their list of victories, Saturday, when they entered competition in a tournament at Columbus North High School. The two varsity teams debated a total of six contests, winning five.

William Burget and Ned Stout, affirmative, kept clean record during the day by winning from Port Clinton, Ada and Doylestown, Lloyd Jones and Paul Turner, negative contenders, lost a close debate to Marysville and won from Dayton Oakwood and Hamilton Catholic.

In the final analysis of results Marysville, Oakwood and Circleville were tied for the first place trophy. In the final contest Marysville, which had won from Circleville, defeated Dayton and took first place. This put Circleville in the second position.

Marysville's team won second place in state competition last year, and is one of the schools in the Circleville league district. The league contest will be held next Saturday at Marysville.

Some 300 pupils from 30 schools took part in the speech activities at North.

Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach, has announced that the local squad will present a practice debate in the high school auditorium Friday at 9:30 a. m. The public is invited to hear the program which will include discussion of the power of the Federal Government.

To date the Circleville team has won 28 and lost 10 contests.

100 PHEASANTS AWAITED

One hundred pheasants, about 80 percent of which cocks, are expected to arrive Wednesday from the Urbana game farms. The birds, all adults, will be distributed in the county. Game Protector Clarence Francis said.

Washington Merry-Go Round

by Mr. Bliss on January 29 regarding subsidizing some of the better anti-war groups. I want you to understand this information is strictly confidential. This information should go no further than this office."

Other correspondence revealed an indirect move to propagandize some of the ministers of the country who might oppose the lend-lease bill. For on January 29 General Wood sent a letter to George W. Robnett, Secretary of the Church League of America, 53 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, which said:

"Your letter of Jan. 28 has just been received. I am delighted that you have the same view of Bill No. 1776 that our America First Committee has, and I think . . . the idea that the statement enclosed should be placed in the hands of every minister is a sound one. Enclosed herewith is my personal check as a small contribution toward this work."

On the same day, General Wood also sent an office memo to R. Douglas Stuart, Jr., in which he said:

"Dear Bobby: I am enclosing a letter addressed to me by the Church League of America. I wish you would get in touch with this Mr. Robnett right away. I think we ought to urge them to get this statement out to their ministers as quickly as possible, even if we have to help them."

Three days later, on February 1, Mr. Stuart, whose father is an executive of the Quaker Oats Company, wrote as follows to Mr. Robnett:

"I am pleased to enclose a check for $150 to be used toward completing your mailing to the ministers throughout the United States. This mailing is to be the one calling attention to the dangers involved in HR 1776. I will be very interested in hearing from you as to how this mailing progresses, with further details of exact cost of your operation. Speed is essential . . ."

SENATOR GEORGE SOFTENING??

The America First Committee also has maintained a confidential observer in Washington who has written some rather interesting memos regarding the views of various senators. In one memo marked "Confidential (From Observer, Washington)" and signed "P. T. O." it is reported:

"Senator George, previously deemed impartial, seems to have shifted his stand. This shift appeared yesterday after Lord Halifax paid him a surprise visit to talk about how fast action may be expected from the Senate on the bill. Senator George, after the conference with Halifax, announced that speed on the bill would continue and that the committee would sit 'longer hours' next week . . . All in all, it is considered that George is being 'softened up' by the Administration, probably by his old friend Secretary Hull."

"Incidentally, the visit of Halifax to the Hill reveals an important change in the attitude of press and public. A year ago any such action by a foreign ambassador, including the ambassador of Great Britain, would have elicited strong expressions of resentment. No such expressions are visible in today's press."

Another confidential memo by the America First Observer and dated January 30 reported "sharp disagreement between Senator Taft on the one side and ex-President Hoover and Senator McNary on the other. McNary and Hoover prefer that the fight be carried on by means of a series of amendments, rather than by one amendment as Senator Taft has proposed. McNary and Hoover say that for technical parliamentary reasons a number of amendments would be the better method."

TO FACE MAYOR CADY
Leroy L. Beougher, Stoutsville, was arrested at 10 p. m. Sunday and charged with being drunk and disorderly after two women reported that he had tried to stop them on East Main Street. Booker remained in City Jail Monday pending hearing before Mayor William Cady.

BRIDGE REPAIRS BEGUN

Favorable Weather Permits Much Relief Activity According To Marcy

County commissioners, together with County Engineer Henry McCrady, made plans Monday for a county-wide blanket road project to be started early this spring.

Next week the commissioners and the county engineer will begin an inspection tour of the 218 miles of county roads to determine which roads are most in need of repair. Actual work on the roads will begin as soon as the weather permits, Engineer McCrady said, with WPA workers being transferred to road projects as soon as other construction projects in the county are completed.

Approximately 30 WPA men have just begun two bridge repair projects north of New Holland on county road Number 25. Plans provide for widening and rebuilding both bridges.

Four miles of the Williamsport Crownover Mill road now are under construction with about 200 WPA men being employed.

Project now under consideration is a repair project on the Circleville-Winchester road, the plans calling for road repairs on three miles of the road in the northern part of the county. The project has not yet received official approval from the government office and will not begin before another month yet, officials believe.

Men To Be Transferred

Most of the two hundred WPA men now employed on the New Holland water works project will be transferred to the blanket road projects as soon as the New Holland water system has been installed, Relief Director Delos Marcy said.

One other road project, the Logan Elm job, which is employing about 50 men under state supervision, is near completion, and officials believe that some of these men may be transferred to county road jobs.

Funds coming into the county office for WPA are considerably larger than last year, Relief Director Marcy has pointed out, since favorable weather conditions have permitted more WPA activity this winter. The average monthly amount received for WPA labor last year was approximately $30,000.

FIFTY VETERANS PUT NAMES ON QUESTIONNAIRES

Fifty war veterans filled out the American Legion National Defense questionnaire during the registration at the Court House Saturday. James Shea, American Legion commander, said Monday that most of those who registered were American Legion and World War veterans, although some belonged to no organization and two were Spanish-American war veterans.

The questionnaires will be sent out Wednesday, one copy going to the American Legion national headquarters and one to state

FIREMEN ACTIVE IN BLAZE SERIES

Hole Burned In Floor At Himrod's; Spark Blamed For Roof Fire

Fire of undetermined origin in C. W. Himrod's antique shop, South Pickaway Street, Sunday about 3 a. m. burned a hole in the floor of the shop for an estimated damage of $5 before firemen arrived and put it out.

A passerby noticed the fire in the building and called Mr. Himrod, who summoned the fire department.

A spark from the chimney was believed to have caused the fire at the Richard Dixon residence on South Washington Street Saturday afternoon, the fire burning a small hole through the shingle roof near the eaves. Firemen said damage was slight.

Firemen were summoned twice to a dump fire behind the Pickaway County Livestock Association stock yards, when employees feared the fire might spread to the barns. The fire, which is smoldering three to four feet under the ground is not endangering any of the buildings at the present time, firemen report.

LOCAL DEBATERS IN SECOND PLACE IN COMPETITION

Circleville High School debaters added to their list of victories, Saturday, when they entered competition in a tournament at Columbus North High School. The two varsity teams debated a total of six contests, winning five.

William Burget and Ned Stout, affirmative, kept clean record during the day by winning from Port Clinton, Ada and Doylestown. Lloyd Jones and Paul Turner, negative contenders, lost a close debate to Marysville and won from Dayton Oakwood and Hamilton Catholic.

In the final analysis of results Marysville, Oakwood and Circleville were tied for the first place trophy. In the final contest Marysville, which had won from Circleville, defeated Dayton and took first place. This put Circleville in the second position.

Marysville's team won second place in state competition last year, and is one of the schools in the Circleville league district. The league contest will be held next Saturday at Marysville.

Some 300 pupils from 30 schools took part in the speech activities at North.

Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach, has announced that the local squad will present a practice debate in the high school auditorium Friday at 9:30 a. m. The public is invited to hear the program which will include discussion of the power of the Federal Government.

To date the Circleville team has won 28 and lost 10 contests.

100 PHEASANTS AWAITED

Washington Merry-Go Round

by Mr. Bliss on January 29 regarding subsidizing some of the better anti-war groups. I want you to understand this information is strictly confidential. This information should go no further than this office.

Other correspondence revealed an indirect move to propagandize some of the ministers of the country who might oppose the lend-lease bill. For on January 29 General Wood sent a letter to George W. Robnett, Secretary of the Church League of America, 53 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, which said:

"Your letter of Jan. 28 has just been received. I am delighted that you have the same view of Bill No. 1776 that our America First Committee has, and I think . . . the idea that the statement enclosed should be placed in the hands of every minister is a sound one. Enclosed herewith is my personal check as a small contribution toward this work."

On the same day, General Wood also sent an office memo to R. Douglas Stuart, Jr., in which he said:

"Dear Bobby: I am enclosing a letter addressed to me by the Church League of America. I wish you would get in touch with this Mr. Robnett right away. I think we ought to urge them to get this statement out to their ministers as quickly as possible, even if we have to help them."

Three days later, on February 1, Mr. Stuart, whose father is an executive of the Quaker Oats Company, wrote as follows to Mr. Robnett:

"I am pleased to enclose a check for $150 to be used toward completing your mailing to the ministers throughout the United States. This mailing is to be the one calling attention to the dangers involved in HR 1776. I will be very interested in hearing from you as to how this mailing progresses, with further details of exact cost of your operation. Speed is essential . . ."

SENATOR GEORGE SOFTENING??

The America First Committee also has maintained a confidential observer in Washington who has written some rather interesting memos regarding the views of various senators. In one memo marked "Confidential (From Observer, Washington)" and signed "P. T. O." it is reported:

"Senator George, previously deemed impartial, seems to have shifted his stand. This shift appeared yesterday after Lord Halifax paid him a surprise visit to talk about how fast action may be expected from the Senate on the bill. Senator George, after the conference with Halifax, announced that speed on the bill would continue and that the committee would sit 'longer hours' next week . . . All in all, it is considered that George is being 'softened up' by the Administration, probably by his old friend Secretary Hull."

"Incidentally, the visit of Halifax to the Hill reveals an important change in the attitude of press and public. A year ago any such action by a foreign ambassador, including the ambassador of Great Britain, would have elicited strong expressions of resentment. No such expressions are visible in today's press."

Another confidential memo by the America First Observer and dated January 30 reported "sharp disagreement between Senator Taft on the one side and ex-President Hoover and Senator McNary on the other. McNary and Hoover prefer that the fight be carried on by means of a series of amendments, rather than by one amendment as Senator Taft has proposed. McNary and Hoover say that for technical parliamentary reasons a number of amendments would be the better method."
